Appomattox Roads

Plans are being worked up by the Highway Dept. to extend the hard surface road through the Fleshman property. The land will be donated by lot owners for a road of that character, and owing to the character of the soil none other than a hard surface road would stand the traffic. The highway between Appomattox and Prospect is in bad shape and for weeks autos have been stuck nearly every day. The excuse offered by the dept. for not completing this road is the refusal of tire people to allow important crossings to be closed. To these people the highway is desirable, but they insist that their church and social intercourse is of more value to them than a through highway and they have no idea of allowing the railroad and their road authorities to shut them up.

School Superintendents

The House of Delegates wanted School Superintendents elected by the people. Supt. Hart appeared before the Senate Com. and opposed it and the Senate straightway killed it.

Reciprosity, senatorial courtesy, and prestige of Senators must be preserved at the expense of helpless children and the school funds of Virginia.

Mr. Hart is quoted:

The present system of appointing county superintendents, has given to the public schools a high type, professional class of instructors, with due consideration given local desires.

The head of the school system of Virginia should be ashamed of such a statement made in the light of events which happened in this county with reference to appointment by his board of our superintendent.

Delegate Wright, in defending his measure, asked what relief the people could obtain if the State Board of Education appointed division superintendents, men whom the people affected do not want.

It is to be hoped that the Commission which is to investigate and report to next General Assembly will offer the people some relief.

If the people could elect this, county and city school boards and these boards appoint superintendents to be confirmed by the Senate it would help in our opinion, but we must acknowledge that all public offices in Va. are political offices.

ROCKS NEWS

Mrs. T. R. Richardson is not any better at this writing.

Alfred Baldwin was in Lynchburg this week to see a doctor about his jaw—he has been having considerable trouble with it.

Mrs. T. J. Cawthorn has been suffering with rheumatism lately.

The Harmony Local met Tuesday night. Messrs. Morton and Potts, and Mrs. D. R. Inge gave talks on how we stood with the association.

The young people enjoyed a party at Mrs. Clarence Evans on last Saturday—a good time was had by all who attended.

Miss E. M. Anderson has returned home after being in Roanoke and Lynchburg for sometime.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Paulett, of Mafrance, W. Va., are visiting their relatives in this neighborhood.

Myrtle Sears

On Thursday afternoon March 4th, 1926 The beautiful spirit of Myrtle Sears, the 6 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sears, winded its way to heaven. The home going of the precious child was especially sad, being the third child that the death angel had claimed. So the bereaved loved ones left behind, feel thickening about them, the darkness of bereavement. May they look up and see wrought for them, the blending of beautiful memories and radiant hope of divine love. Just why this little rose bud was plucked and transplanted in heaven, we cannot tell, but, some day, we'll understand. We extend to this bereaved family and loved ones, our most heart felt sympathy.

Appomattox Co-ops in Session

We, the members of the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association of Appomattox County, have met today to consider the affairs of our organization, both from the standpoint of the management of our affairs by our officers and directors, and also to freely and frankly discuss and consider the facts as they exist with reference to a new sign up. We know that if the association is to secure the necessary 75% sign up and succeed there must be harmony within our ranks and united determined purpose to put across our undertaking.

At this point it is well to be frank and truthful and ask the questions—Is the membership loyal? Are they satisfied? Will they sign a new contract? The true answer to all three of these questions is that a large number of the members of the association are not loyal and have been selling during the past season, many of them, tobacco which belongs to the association openly on auction floors. This is proof enough that they are not satisfied. There is a still larger class who have been loyal in that they have not violated their contract but they are very much dissatisfied. There are so many of these two classes who will not sign a new contract that we are forced to consider today the cause of their dissatisfaction, and if possible to find the remedy. We believe, however, that in the beginning of this meeting we should re-affirm our faith in co-operative marketing, and therefore:

We, the members of the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Asso, of Appomattox County, Va. assembled in mass meeting this the 5th day of March, 1926 reaffirm our faith in, and allegiance to, the principles of cooperative marketing of the products of the soil. We feel, however that a crisis has been reached in the history of our organization and that some policies of the management have been exceedingly harmful to the best interest of the membership, and that a satisfactory renewal contract cannot be secured from a sufficient number of growers to insure future success until proper steps have been taken to convey formal disapproval of the hurtful policies to the present management and to take such steps as may be necessary to prevent recurrence of said unwise management

Therefore, be it resolved by this body:

First, that we place the seal of disapproval upon the past secret policy of the management of our association and declare this to have been the one basic cause of every trouble which has come in the way of complete success for the association and is responsible today more largely than any other one thing for the loss of confidence of the membership in the continued growth of the organization.

Second, that we denounce as unwise and unnecessary the large salaries which have in many instances been paid to officials of our organization, and while some correction of this matter has taken place, we know that much more can be done to reduce expenses of our organization without interfering with its efficiency.

Third, we declare the redrying policy of the management in which officials and directors have been interested and made for themselves large profits to be unethical, unwise and most unfortunate and next to the policy of secrecy declared against in resolution number one. The redrying policy is proving today a very great factor in preventing a ready signing of new contracts.

Notwithstanding all that has been said, we believe that the Board of Directors adopted these polices in good faith, believing at that time it was for the best interest of the association.

Nevertheless, not withstanding all of the above which has so weakened the faith of hundreds and even thousands of our members that they have sometimes come to the decision that a successful farmers organization is not possible and has been the cause of millions of pounds of tobacco being diverted from the association. Yet we who are here today rise up as one man and declare without fear of challenge, because the records prove it, that the period since 1922, when the contract was first effective has been the period of the highest and most uniform prices of tobacco which has ever been known for any four years since the history of our country. To compare this with the fluctuating unsatisfatory prices of the auction markets, especially during the past few weeks, is evidence enough to convince the most sceptical that notwithstanding the mistakes which have been made the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Marketing Asso. has been a wonderful success, is now a success, and we are determined shall continue to be a success.

Our organization is no different from any other organization. If some official of a bank or railroad is guilty of neglect or mismanagement there is no thoght of failure, but the offending official is replaced by another and the work goes on. Just so with us. We need to make some changes in some of our officials, but these matters are of secondary importance at this time because under the new sign up you will necessarily have to elect new directors and can then choose new or old management as you deem wisest.

Think for a moment; nine months from now, without a new sign-up, what will happen. Your association will be bankrupt. Your credit will be gone. Your warehouse investment will be put on the market and sacrificed. Your tobacco will have to be dumped on the market. Your participation certificates, which should represent millions of dollars will be absolutely worthless, and last and worst of all you will face an unknown number of years of financial demoralization, such as you perhaps have never known before. Now therefore be it resolved:

Fourth, that our secretary be instructed to take such steps as may be necessary to publish this paper in the local newspaper and to send copies to our director, C. W. Wingfield and instruct him to use his efforts to bring about in the management of the association as much as is possible of the expressions set forth in sections 1 2 3 of this article and if possible to incorporate in the new contract some clause or clauses which shall guarantee to us the results desired as set forth above.

CABLE REPAIR AT SEA IS THRILLING

Broken Strand Calls Out Ship in All Weather.

New York.—Stretching out and away, like a fairy thread of the finest, the transatlantic cable from Cape Cod to Brest usually connects the Old world with the New.

But sometimes it breaks!

When this happens there is much concern in the offices of the French Cable company—a breathless expense, while delicate instruments are locating the break. Often it is near the middle of the ocean, and when the break is located the cable repair ship Edouard Jeramiec is dispatched to the scene.

A marine oddity, the Jeramiec is one of the finest cable ships afloat. Huge tanks below decks house 270 miles of deep-sea cables. Grappling hooks of all descriptions, weighted to sink them three miles below the surface, are stowed properly away. Buoys to mark the ends of cable when located are lashed on deck. Powerful winches fore and aft, are ready to roll in or out the heavy strands.

It is heart-breaking work, this locating the broken ends of a deep-sea cable, Capt. Julien Le Marrain and his crew will assure anyone. In Europe and America, cable transmission is hindered while the Jeramiec steams slowly back and forth, groping about the ocean floor. Howling winds and lashing seas must be disregarded. Huge lights transform night into day, and the work continues.

Huge lights transform night into day, and the work continues.

Often the cable is located and the business of bringing it to the surface, a matter of eight hours' work, is begun. And after it almost reaches the deck of the ship, only to break again and slide mockingly back to its resting place in the mud and slime of the bottom.

Fish Fossils Yield Ichthyol in Texas

Dallas, Texas.—Fossilized remains of prehistoric fish, from which is produced the strange chemical called ichthyol, are to supply Texas with an entire modern industry.

In what is believed to be an ancient ocean bed, pushed to the surface by geological action, near Burnet in west Texas, has been discovered a particular ashy shale from which ichthyol is extracted. This substance is a fossil fish oil used in medicine, especially in ointments and in treatment of skin diseases.

An ichthyol corporation has been organized and has leased 900 acres near Burnet. The chemical has sold as high as $80 a pound.

New Type of Light Rays Is Discovered

London.—The discovery of a new type of rays, supposed to lie between the ultra-violet and X-rays, is announced by C. R. Wynn Williams of the University of North Wales at Bangor. It is said the new rays penetrate the air for several inches, but are stopped by all solids, even by gold leaf, while X-rays can penetrate a half-inch of lead and the recently discovered Millikan rays pass through six feet of lead.

STONEWALL

March weather and bad roads are the talk of the day. Farmers are busy getting ready for another crop when the weather permits.

Mrs. Sallie Floyd Watson, principle of Stonewall School, has resigned and returned to her home in Wythville. Miss Lucille Dudley, of Appomattox, has accepted the position.

Misses Elva Stratton, and Alice Carson, of Appomattox, spent the week-end with home people.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Drinkard and Glenn Drinkard, of Lynchburg, and Paul Drinkard, of Appomattox, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Drinkard Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunkley Gunter who have been residing in Crewe for several months are spending some time with Mrs. Gunter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Anderson.

Rev. J. M. Street left last week for his new pastorate in Amherst County. Mrs. Street will not join him until next week.

Rev. Caudle, formerly of Lynchburg, now of Florida, preached a very impressive sermon to a small congregation, due to the weather and bad roads, last Sunday at Hebron church. He was entertained in the home of J. A. Stratton for dinner.

La Grippe has been in our midst for some time, lots of families had sickness, but no pheumonia. Mr. G. E. Drinkard who sustained a stroke of paralysis several weeks ago is slowly improving. Mesdames T. A. and W. H. Drinkard who have been on the sick list for some time are improving.

Mr. George William Cheatham and bride, Miss Ruth Stratton, are guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stratton for several days.

HIXBURG

Our neighborhood was saddened last week by the death of one of our bright and attractive children, little Myrtle Sears. We are glad to report that the sick at Mrs. E. P. Sears are improving.

Miss Rogers, who went home last week-end has not returned to her school. We are sorry to know that sickness in her family accounts for her absence.

This cold spell seems severe to everybody after the warm days in February.

Here's hoping spring will come soon.

The Lynchburg Steam Bakery will deliver bread here several times a week.

Miss Flosie Marshall who is in training at Charlotte, N. C. is very much pleased with the work.

Owing to the inclement weather there were no services at the Presbyterian Church Sunday.

There will be preaching at the Baptist Church next Sunday, March 14th, by the pastor, Rev. W. B. Duling.

Miss Janie Phillips will leave soon to take up work in Richmond.

The regular P. T. A. meeting will be held Friday at the school house. All who are interested in our school are urged to attend.

The regular meeting of 4H Club was held Wednesday afternoon. The attendance has been especially good since last fall. The club is sorry to lose one of its members, Bert Murden, who has gone to Newport News.

One of the sawmills recently at work here, has moved out.

We understand the road from here to Pamplin is to be "grey soiled" and we sincerely hope it will be done soon. Since we haven't the highway, surely our roads ought to be made passable during winter months. The new road tractor looks promising.

WOODLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Berkley Nash, are the happy parents of a baby boy.

Mr. James Bradley, of Olis, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Puckett.

PINEY RIDGE

The meeting of the Jr. League in Feb., was "The top rung of the Ladder" in program.—Educational, pleasing and hilarious, charades, drills, pantomines, and patriotic songs.
